Things to Know

- You can start using Ditto for free today if you have a compatible receiver

- There are various methods for connecting to Solstice Pods, which may pose challenges for new users and limit user adoption.

- Ditto users share wirelessly with Ditto Connect on any device.

- The Solstice Pod Unlimited is one of the most expensive wireless collaboration solutions on the market among comparable products.

- Ditto offers signage creation and storage space; Solstice primarily uses third-party signage integrations

- Mersive previously designated existing hardware "end of life" after releasing new hardware, which may signal a pattern of release and obsoletion

Our Experience with Mersive

We ordered a Solstice Pod to test for ourselves. Mersive canceled our order with no explanation.

What people are saying about Ditto

"Start here. We tried many other versions of screen sharing and this is the best."

— MARK R, G2 REVIEWER

"The faculty who have used [Ditto] liked it better than the more expensive product that is used campus-wide."

— DEBORAH T, ADMIN SERVICES COORDINATOR

"We're now able to have anyone who visits our office connect…via Ditto, saving a lot of time and headaches with different adapters and wireless standards. It puts different users on the same page for presentations and removes potential headaches."

— JONATHAN F, DIRECTOR, MEDIA & TECHNOLOGY

"Maintaining AirPlay traffic without interruptions had been a real challenge for us over the years. Ditto has its own mirroring protocol that uses a single network port, so we know how to treat that from a network traffic perspective. With Ditto, we can mirror content and not get dropouts in a busy environment."

— PETER CHEEL, INFORMATION & COMMUNICATIONS TECHNOLOGY MANAGER

"We replaced the USB drive plugged into our reception area TV with an Apple TV running Ditto. Immediately, the [digital signage] content was dynamic, relevant and fresh."

— LAURIE FITZELL, ICT SUPPORT ANALYST
